ALEXANDRIA – MONROE HIGH SCHOOL

ALEXANDRIA, INDIANA

FOREWORD

As our nation set its sights on reaching the unknown of this universe, so we as students of Alexandria Monroe High School set our goals to reach the top in all we do.

As the year passed by students began acquiring important knowledge and gaining valuable experience which would help them lead better lives in their school, home, and community.

Academic life was only one of the phases of our life at AMHS. Sports, social events, and extracurricular activities round out our well-balanced school year.

With the passage of years you may look back upon this school year as the time when the darkness of misconception began to brighten with the gleam of understanding and you began to find your way "to the stars through knowledge."

of the summer still lingered in our minds.

September 4, came very quickly for the students of Alexandria Monroe High School. We all felt a little sad at ending our summer vacation, but we all looked forward to another school year as we gathered in the halls and classrooms on opening day.

The student body that assembled for instructions was the largest that had passed through the open doors of AMHS. There was the usual first day confusion as we enrolled in our classes and received information on books and fees. As we listened to the teachers present their requirements for their courses, we knew that we had a lot of hard work ahead of us.

When the last bell rang, 635 students scrambled out to waiting buses and cars, each filled with new hope and determination to make this year the very best.

Confused freshmen sought help from the guidance office to plan their year's program.

Classes soon began and students prepared themselves for study.

Social, academic, physical, and religious

Well-balanced activities helped make this school year enjoyable and interesting for the students. Our social activities were greatly varied and ranged from formal dates or parties to very informal get-togethers.

The desire of the students for an education was evident by the seriousness with which they treated their school work.

Being active in sports, Noon League, and G.A.A. gave us energy to keep up the rugged pace of a teenager.

Knowing that a well-balanced life could not be achieved without spiritual growth, we sought guidance in our monthly convocations and attended the church of our choice on Sundays.

friends, eating, and attending club meetings.

The dinner hour was increased to an hour this year, and the students used the extra time in a variety of ways. Music was piped through the entire building, and one side of the gymnasium was available for dancing. Noon League games were organized for both boys and girls. Their vigorous games not only worked up a good appetite, but also helped work off the tension of morning exams.

Some students used this time for hobbies such as playing chess or working in the lab, and the library was always open for study.

These noon activities helped eliminate the long lines in the cafetorium and made our dinner hour enjoyable and relaxing for all.

Eating is an important event in the school day for all students.

curricular activities during the evening hours

Although the school day officially ends at 3:00 P.M., many students stay afterwards or return in the evening. The gymnasium was kept busy as the basketball teams, twirlers, cheerleaders, and cheerblock gathered for "perfecting" practice. The stage was also a scene of hurried activity as the choir, band, and Drama Club rehearsed for coming performances.

Homework took a big bite out of week days but left us with ample time to attend class or club parties or enjoy a relaxing evening with friends at the Kanteen.

We looked forward to weekends when we could witness another victory for the Tiger team, home or away, or spend an evening with that special person.

Between eating snacks and listening to the radio, Susan Lower attempts to do her homework.

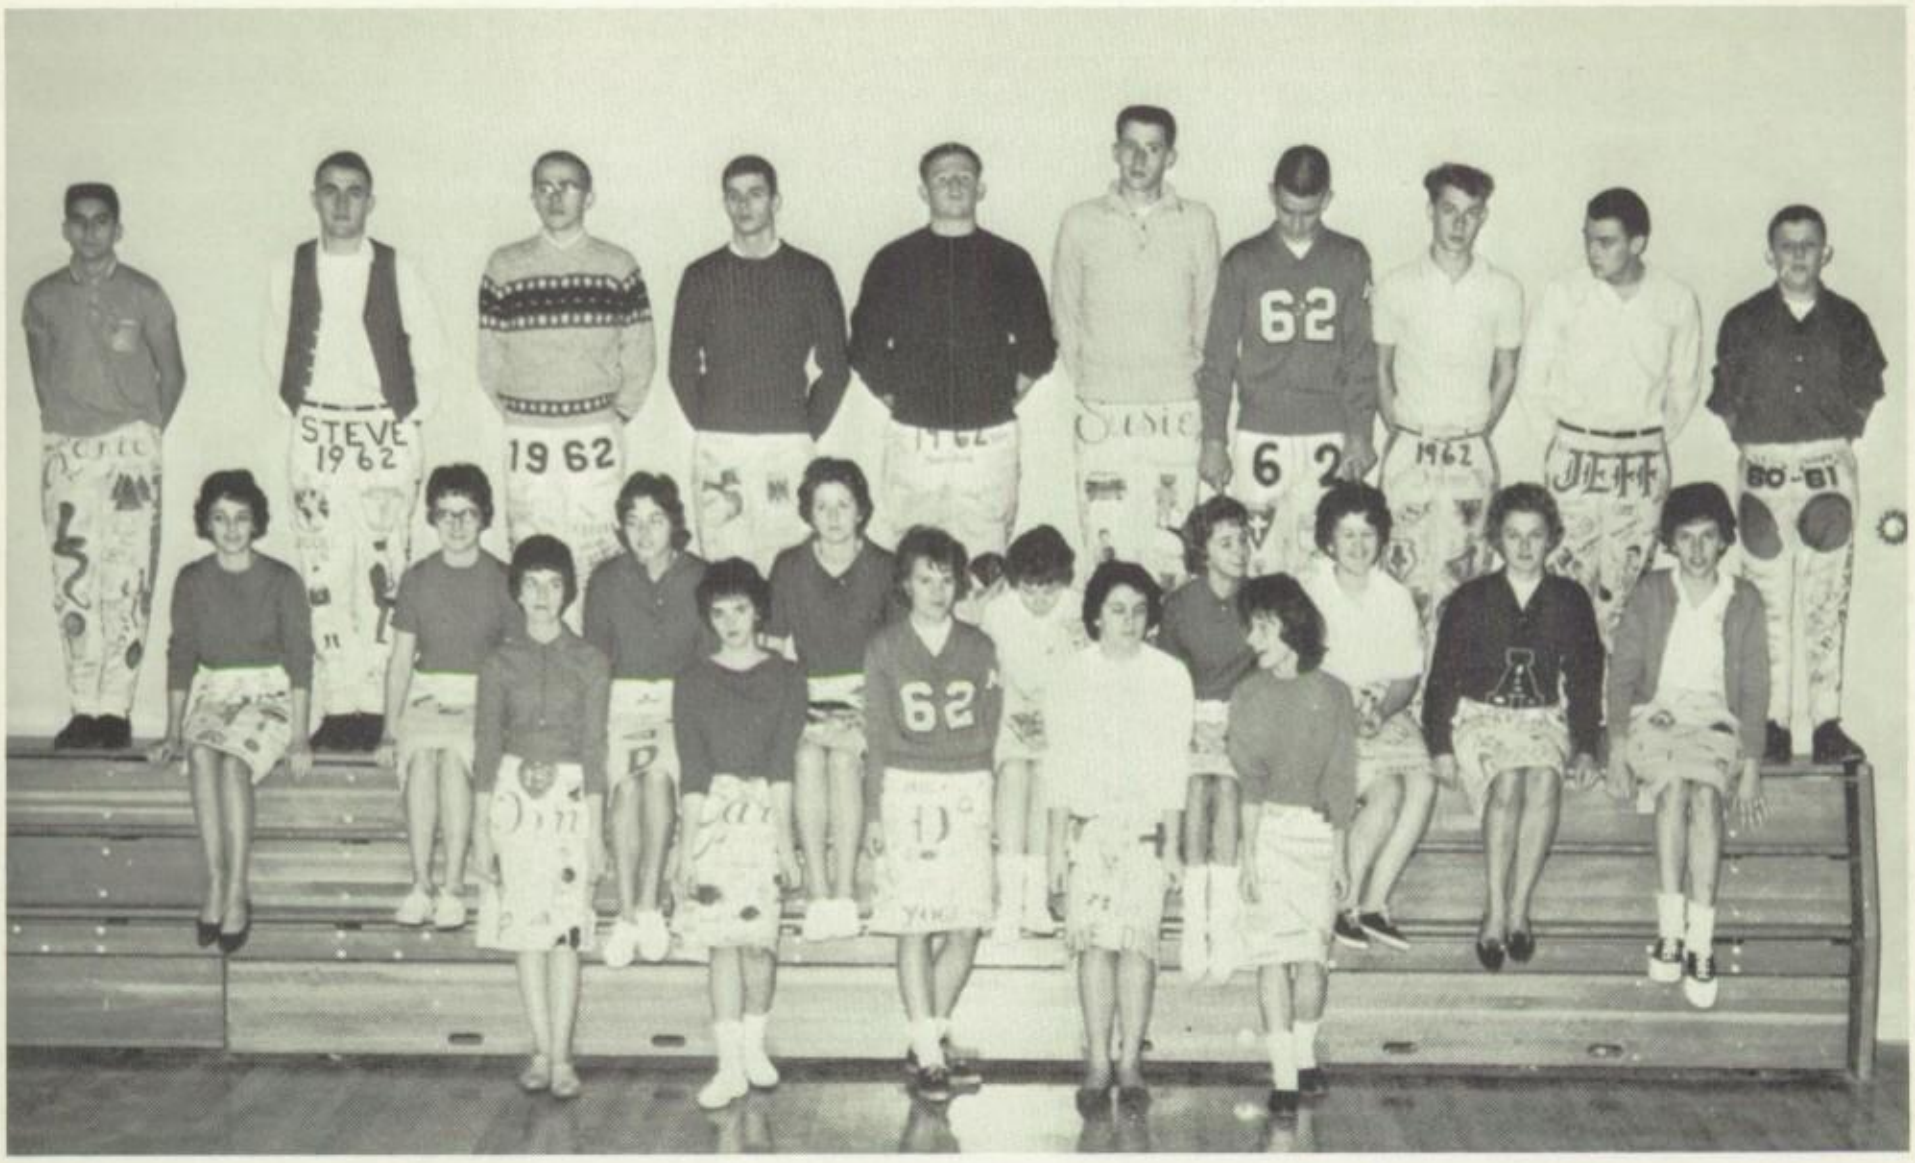
Individual tastes expressed in latest fads.

As we walked through the halls we were aware of the many fads and fashions that come and go through out the year. On cold mornings the girls kept their well-crammed heads warm with tall fuzzy hats, but ignored chapped knees as they sported short hemlines. Senior cords caught fire and color ran riot as both boys and girls competed for the sharpest cords.

Going steady continued to be popular and girls altered the rings to a perfect fit by wrapping angora around the top. Tennis shoes, in colors to match any outfit, were practical and comfortable; and large purses proved to be a girl's best friend. When school work and tension grew, we relaxed with the inevitable "pepsi."

Jane Carver, Diann Swindell, and Penny Poole display the short, shorter, and the shortest in skirt hemlines.

Try as they might, Barbara Reid and Cindy Galloway can't get all the contents of their big pocketbooks into Connie Cummins' small one.



Some seniors began work on their cords early in the summer in an effort to have unique and colorful ideas for making their cords the very best.

Mike Leer, and Danny Johnson just follow the crowd when they pause for a pepsi.

Going steady and finding new ways to fix their steady's ring was the desire of Jeanne Schweitzer and Nina Heartbarger.

Homecoming traditions carried on amid

Queen Mary Ann Hocker smiles radiantly, displaying the charm and personality that brought her the coveted title.

As the school year got into full swing and warm days became a part of the past, the students of AMHS pulled on their winter clothing and began preparations for the annual Homecoming events.

Homecoming festivities were opened Friday evening with the band leading a long caravan of decorated cars and floats out to the football field.

As a climax to the colorful halftime show by the band, Miss Mary Ann Hocker was crowned 1961 Homecoming Queen.

On Saturday, guests danced to the music of the Rex Jenkins Band as they gathered to honor the queen and her court. The queen was presented with the traditional red roses and given the symbolic football to sign. Thus ended the 1961 Homecoming. A success "Above and Beyond" greatest expectations.

The queen's court was composed of seniors, Mary Ann Haas, Diann McClead, and Sheri Robbins, sophomore, Shirley Grimme; freshman, Sue Dinehart; and junior, Kathy Ellis.

Originality in decorating, such as this JRC car, was the key to making the parade impressive to all onlookers.

Last minute preparations are made on the senior floats which are soon to be adorned by the queen candidates and the past queens.

Recognizing the value of education and its increasing role in society, we sought to learn all we could while we were near a vast source of knowledge. As our academic life progressed we gained an increasing respect for the curriculum at AMHS. Appreciation of our adequate facilities and competent instructors could only be repaid by an intense seriousness in acquiring an education.

ments ready students to face scientific world

As college days inch their way closer and closer, students bury their heads in textbooks explaining the technicalities and mysteries of math and science.

Such an emphasis has been put on mathematics and the sciences that no student with an eye on the future can overlook their importance.

Participation in the advanced courses has increased in the past years. Even the female population no longer finds it unusual to be cheek to cheek with a Bunsen Burner or to be multiplying exponents right along with the boys

Those students planning a college career are fortunate to have able instructors and biology and chemistry laboratories equipped with up-to-date facilities.

With these opportunities in the science and math departments, the students may easily prepare themselves for today's scientific world.

Under the watchful eye of Jane Moncrief and Bruce Stansberry, ViYonna Collier and Kenny Cleaver practice exercises in the speech class version of "The Happy Holiday."

Latin can be taught in a variety of ways as shown by the fact that students listen to proper pronunciation from a record.

Key to success rests upon art of communication

Being capable of communicating with others is an important asset which can only be obtained through adequate knowledge of such courses as composition, speech, literature, journalism, and foreign language.

As more jobs requiring personal contact with the public are being made available, more emphasis was put on the English department as another teacher was added second semester.

With foreign countries only hours away it is essential that we be able to communicate with foreigners in their native tongue. Latin has been offered for several years and is normally considered the root of all languages. However, since French is quickly becoming what could be termed the "universal language" it was added this year and has become one of the most popular subjects.

With these additions students are able to prepare themselves more completely in the art of communication which is the key to success in any field.

Flaws in pronunciation of French are found and corrected with use of a tape recorder.

New educational T.V. programs were used this year as a new medium for teaching methods.

Dianne Moore explains to the civics class the proper use of a voting machine.

Study of nation's history develops patriotism

Yesterday's empires and today's troubled world led the list of topics discussed in the social studies classes.

U.S. history and the growth of America took on new meaning through the reading of historical novels and participation in panel discussions. By discussing current news, the students were able to obtain ideas of history in the making.

A broader scope of ideas were obtained as students viewed World History over the newly initiated educational T.V. program.

With the hope of developing intelligent, responsible and participating citizens, the civics class studied proper voting procedure and the structure of the Federal and State governments.

In U.S. history up to date maps help students to connect historical events to geographical areas.

Students receive training in business methods

Modern automation played an important part in the commercial education department. The sound of electric typewriters, automatic calculators and electric adding machines could be heard all day long.

The push button age hasn't completely replaced manual tasks as the students in typing will readily admit as they strived for speed and accuracy. Brain power was still needed, however, by those taking bookkeeping. Whether balancing home budgets or bank accounts these students have prepared themselves well for the job.

Although it remains a woman's world in many of the business courses, the boys found it beneficial to take academic typing.

These basic skills in business methods will give students many advantages in today's busy world.

The skills that will prepare students for future jobs and homemaking can not be acquired from textbooks alone.

At AMHS students are able to obtain practical experience as well as knowledge from textbooks.

Girls in home ec. become well qualified in homemaking.

At the same time boys in agriculture and the industrial shops prepare themselves for work in non-technical areas.

Each year many students enroll in the home economics, agriculture, or industrial arts courses, knowing that they will receive the very best training.

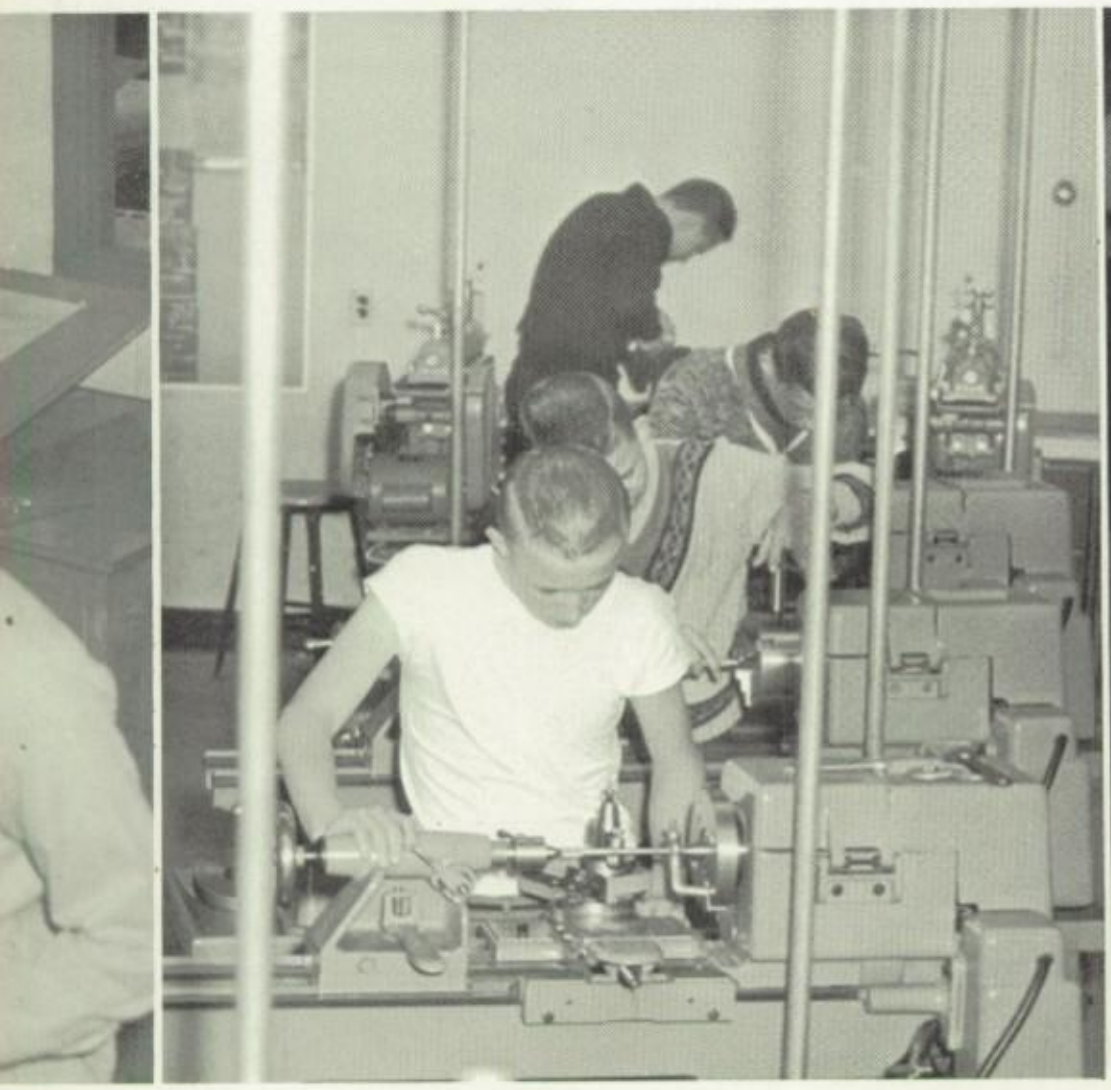
Girls in home ec. put practical knowledge to use as they made smart looking outfits according to the latest fashions.



Emphasis is still put on the skills obtained in industrial arts classes.

Tim Burden and Steve Grimme obtain an idea of a printer's life as they do printing for the school.

Interest shown in health education program

Knowing the mechanics of a car is an important element learned in drivers' training.

When you look at all the cars in the student parking lot you can just bet that a large percentage of the drivers got their training through the school. The drivers education classes are in great demand. Everyone is anxious to get under the wheel and to hold their first driving permit. Both boys and girls benefit greatly by their study of safe driving practices and the fundamental workings of the engine.

Our male and female athletes keep the gymnasium in constant use. Physical education classes meet five days a week and six periods a day. Because of the increasing interest, it has become necessary to devise a plan for sharing the gym. This type of participation speaks for itself for the worth of the physical fitness and health education program.

During health Larry Stafford uses a model human torso to help explain the parts of the human anatomy.

Physical education classes often become the scene of gymnastic stunts.

New equipment has enabled art students to develop their talents more fully.

Culture remains an important educational need

An unquestionable part of learning is developing one's own interest and appreciation of the more cultural aspects of life. A student is not expected to spend his time pouring over old classics but he should take advantage of the fine store of books available. The school library is very young but is expanding its facilities to a great degree. Its once barren shelves have now been filled with all needed types of reference books and an abundant supply of fictional books.

The art department also plays an important part at AMHS. This class, an elective course, attracts many students. Here they learn how to express themselves and to develop their talents to the fullest. Their progress is notable to all as they proudly exhibit their accomplishments in the display case.

Toni Fox forgets her surroundings as she becomes absorbed in one of the interesting fictionals.

Activities abound at AMHS. We participated in activities for many reasons. Many of us joined for the basic knowledge to be gained, some merely for fun, and still others wanted the opportunity of experiencing cooperation for a common purpose. Regardless of our motives we all gained a feeling of accomplishment upon seeing the products of our efforts.

The twenty-five members of the Spectrum Staff make up the smallest but busiest organization in the school. The job of producing an annual takes an industrious student and exposes him to the problems and trials of a journalist.

With the addition of twenty pages came an added expense and set the group off on a money-raising binge. They met the demand by sponsoring several record hops and selling a record-breaking amount of ads. New lay-out and copy ideas influenced the work of the staff members throughout the year.

For a change of pace the staff had an informal party in the early spring.

No other high school organization requires closer co-operation between members or a stronger desire to help. These qualities aid in producing a finished product which will be satisfactory to the student body and the community.

Co-op fulfills role as "voice" of the students

The Student Co-op is organized for the purpose of bettering the relationship between teachers and students. It brings to attention the problems of the student body and attempts to work out solutions acceptable to both student and administration.

This group is the only real link between instructors and pupils and is a good opportunity for each to view both sides of the situation.

Members are elected for Student Co-op by their classmates. Therefore, it is truly a representative organization.

Through the past years they have initiated needed changes in school policy and have given the students a chance to show that they can be trusted with new freedoms.

Y-Clubs combine fun and service in activities

The Hi-Y is an organization that has received much merit for its activities. Members began the year's projects by working, along with the Y-Teens, on the Leukemia Fund Drive. One project that they sponsor each year is the sale of school imprinted pencils.

Enthusiasm at sports events can always be improved and the Hi-Y helped Alex fans show pride in their school by the sale of Tiger emblems.

The boys in Hi-Y have proved themselves worthy of the organization that established their club, the YMCA, and have made themselves an essential part of school activities.

A growing school spirit is essential in any school. It not only strengthens the athletic program but also develops pride for the school.

Organizations such as the B.C.A., Cheerblock, and Varsity "A" Club promote school spirit through their activities and faithful attendance at sports events.

The International Relations Club has grown to become one of the largest and most active clubs in school.

As the year progressed I.R.C. members held their annual banquet, sponsored a school-wide convocation, played hosts to visiting foreign teachers, and helped on Career Day.

However, much of the year was spent in preparation for the Model U.N. To encourage participation in this event, an award was given to the outstanding participant.

As a final note for the year the club relaxed with an informal party.

The Future Teachers of America play an important role in the school and also in helping students to decide whether they wish to become teachers.

During American Education Week members set up a window display uptown, served as helping hands to the teachers, and stressed that school clubs have a display for open house.

In order that students might practice teaching, observation was held during which members visited various schools in the community. Later a pitch-in dinner was held to discuss the all important knowledge that the members had gained from this event.

F.T.A. members presented the teachers with shiny red apples.

Latin Club maintains interest with activities

Probably the club with the most interesting meetings is the Latin Club. Members engage in crossword puzzles pertaining to their studies, and participate in a variety of plays and games in addition to their regular order of business.

Initiations for the clubs were of a humorous nature this year, and the Latin Club joined in by selling slaves during their initiation party. Their contribution to the Homecoming Parade was a company of Roman patricians dressed in togas.

During the holidays the group added their Christmas party to the list of many others.

French Club has busy and active first year

With the addition of French in our Foreign Language department comes a newly formed club--the French Club. Despite its newness the club has been very active.

The French students have become so adept with the new language that by Christmas they were able to sing carols in French. This introduced an interesting variety to the standard musical arrangements.

To further their interests and to better understand their studies, these scholars correspond with students in France.

This club has been quick to make its place among the other organizations and is recognized as an active and contributing club.

French Club officers ride on the club's float entry in the homecoming parade.

Student choral programs attract large crowds

Choir has become one of the favorite electives for many students because of the experience they may gain and the enjoyment it brings to them.

Participation in the choral program has increased until it has become necessary to form two choirs: the fourth hour beginning choir for new members and the Robed choir for students with more experience in four or eight part harmony.

From the Robed choir, fourteen top seniors were chosen for the Senior Ensemble, a group which entertains at various community activities and add their own personal touch to school concerts.

In addition to concerts, the combined choirs present their annual Christmas and Easter Cantata, and participate in the County Choral Festival and County Contest. Their continued success make us at AMHS very proud of our superior choral program.

Flashy new uniforms added inspiration for the

With new uniforms as an added inspiration the members of the band worked hard to present unmatched showmanship throughout the school year.

During the fall months long practices proved to be a worthwhile effort as the band produced versatile and entertaining halftime shows during football games.

A journey to the Purdue Band Day climaxed the marching season and launched a busy schedule of basketball games.

Precision marching was not their only achievement as they entertained large crowds at concerts.

The music department's finale was the Spring Variety show which played to an appreciative audience.

Linda Lambertson, drum majorette, and Sheryl LeVeque, head majorette, served the band well throughout the year.

success in the band's performances

Band members came well equipped for the journey to the Purdue Band Day.

Athletics ranked high on the list of student interests. As we lived through each contest, we cheered loudly and beamed proudly when our Tiger squads ran out before the spectators, each of us joining in loyal support of our team. Whether the game was won or lost we saw the team members play with the spirit and sportsmanship we feel is part of our heritage.

Athletics spur enthusiasm and sportsmanship

What would athletics be without the enthusiasm of the spectators, both young and old?

Backing the Tigers when the score was favorable and showing true sportsmanship when the game seemed lost, the student body spurred their teams on to victory.

Boasting the largest cheerblocks in years, AMHS out yelled, out stomped, and out clapped all opposing fans.

The spirited cheerleading squad which appeared at pep rallies, and football and basketball games worked hard to improve student support through active leadership and tireless effort.

The student body was justly proud as the Tigers brought home C.I.C. honors, placing second in football and first in basketball.

Enthusiasm at pep sessions was increased by a variety of skits.

Anxiety increases as the twirlers present the colors in pre-game ceremonies.

Alex gridmen turn in impressive season record

Dan Prough, Tiger halfback, drives for a short gain against the Highland Highlanders.

Large scores and a long awaited victory over rival Elwood highlighted the best grid season in the history of Alexandria football. A perfect 9-0 season was marred only by a 6 point loss to CIC foe Warsaw. The Tiger offense was particularly outstanding as they limited their opponents to a mere 37 points throughout the season.

The Bengals made their debut with a fine showing at the Mississinewa Jamboree.

The regular season was opened with a convincing 34-0 victory over the Redbirds of Royerton. The next week fans saw a determined Mississinewa team battle the Tigers on even terms until Alex scored the winning touchdown in the last few minutes.

Then came the game that everyone had waited for as the Tigers traveled to Elwood to take on the Panthers during their homecoming. The Tigers rolled up a 14-0 lead and then held off a late Elwood drive to preserve a 14-13 victory.

The following week's game broke the back of the Tiger's CIC chances. Two first quarter defensive lapses were responsible for a heartbreaking 12-6 loss to our northern conference rivals, Warsaw. Their revenge was soon obtained, however, when they defeated the Madison Heights Pirates 21-0.

During their own homecoming the Tigers proved to be stingy hosts to Highland as they defeated them 47-0. The halftime ceremonies were highlighted by the crowning of Mary Ann Hocker as 1961 Homecoming Queen.

Carrying a 5-1 record the Alex charges moved into Tipton for an all important conference game. The Tigers completely dominated the statistics with Alex coming out on top, 7-6.

Wabash's Apaches provided the next opposition, but the Tiger team overpowered them 33-0.

The final game finished the season in fine fashion as the Tigers gained 418 yards to defeat the Hartford City Airdales, 45-6.

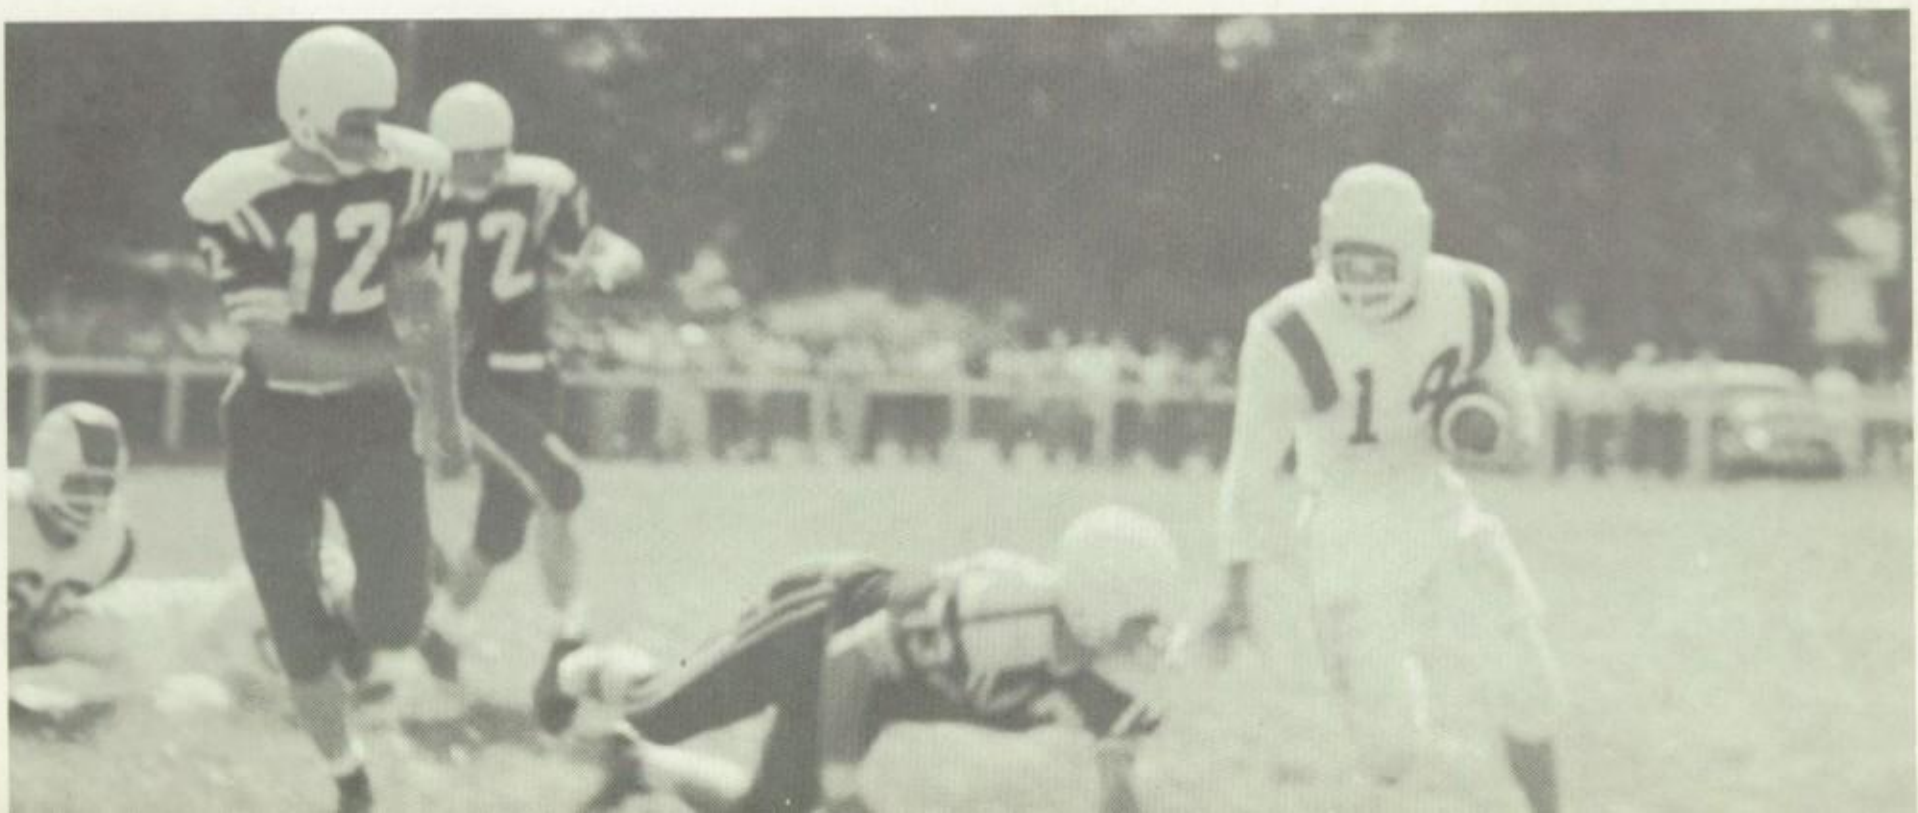
Elwood back, Larry Hocker, is pursued by Henderson, Dave Prough, and Overman in the exciting game with our neighboring rivals.



A winning season was highest reward

At the awards banquet the team named Shirl Phipps as the outstanding lineman and Todd Davis as outstanding back. Larry Beeman and Todd Davis were voted as co-captains. The Tigers also presented Coach Wehsollek with the football used to break the Elwood jinx.

Finishing in second place in the CIC the Tigers had 8 players honored at the banquet.

Fifteen AMHS seniors played their last football game against Hartford City. Many of these boys have played on the varsity for the past three years and have built up a record of 23 wins and 6 losses which is quite outstanding.

The Alex freshmen had a rugged and uneventful grid season. Although they lost all of their games the season was not completely unsuccessful. The boys gained valuable experience which will help them in varsity ball.

Talented Alex 5 capture C.I.C. Championship

The Alexandria Tigers, 1961 Sectional Champions, opened their '62 season with 3 straight wins over Highland, 71-53, Warsaw, 54-44, and Huntington, 63-41. Their streak was finally halted by an undefeated Noblesville team, 64-60.

The Bengals roared through their next 6 games by decisive margins. Madison Heights was a 75-59 victim, while Tipton became the 3rd straight C.I.C. foe to fall before the tall and talented Tigers. Royerton's undefeated Redbirds sailed into town with a 37 game winning streak only to see it snapped by a fired up home crew, 71-42. The next 2 victims were Pendleton and Madison Heights. The latter of which was the Tigers first foe in the Holiday Tourney. Once again the Noblesville Millers severed the Tigers' winning streak with a thrilling 53-52 victory.

In warm-up for their annual battle against arch-rival Elwood the Tigers clawed through 4 straight opponents: Summitville, 58-48, Muncie Burris, 78-40, Hartford City, 58-50, and Portland, 63,37.

The Elwood game was, as usual, an exciting one; but the Bengals' superior height won out by a 50-40 margin.

The next night a fired-up group of Frankton Eagles pushed the Alex crew to the wire, but were finally defeated by the Tigers, 53-51.

February 2, was a big day in Tigertown as they clinched the C.I.C. crown with a 74-52 victory over hapless Wabash. This marked the first C.I.C. championship in Alexandria in 10 years.

A week later the Middletown Cosacks defeated a somewhat overconfident Alex crew, 44-43. The Burdsallmen perked up for their encounter with Mississinewa and defeated them 57-43, only to fall into a rut while absorbing their worst loss of the year to Peru, 62-49.

The defending champs headed into Sectional with a sparkling 16-4 record and edged county foe Frankton in a somewhat wild contest, 58-50. In their next encounter, however, any Tiger tourney hopes were snuffed out by a hot-shooting Markleville club. When the final buzzer sounded the Bengals had faltered by a 56-55 tally.

Even though the Tiger's sectional showing disappointed many, the outlook for the future is very high. Coach John Green's B-Team finished their 2nd straight undefeated season by posting a 20-0 record. They now own a 38 game winning streak which in itself states that the Tigers are up and running.

G.A.A. encourages athletics among the girls.

The newly organized Girls' Athletic Association has many active members who meet after school once a week. During this time they participate in such activities as volleyball, basketball, bowling, and softball.

These activities were planned by Susan Magee, President; Phyllis Meeks, Vice President; Cindy Galloway, Secretary; and Anne Marie Prieshoff, Treasurer.

By participating regularly in the club's activities each girl may earn a pin, letter, sweater, or jacket.

Margie Sparks, Becky Schaffer, and Cynthia Bowers enjoy an exciting game of volleyball during one of the G.A.A. meetings.

We'll never forget the people we've met here. We remember AMHS not only for the lasting friendships, but also for the momentary acquaintances. From them we gained the valuable knowledge of learning to work and cooperate with others. The offices need administrators, and classrooms need teachers and students--people cooperating together created the spirit of AMHS--the spirit which will reign with us.

friends . . .

Our administrators and faculty strive

AMHS has long been proud of the excellent group of teachers that make up its faculty. Complex is the word that best describes the running of a high school, and teamwork is the only way the job can be completed. Administrators, deans, councilors, and teachers join to keep pace with the modern trends in education.

Our faculty is a group forever on the move. Their day is not over when the bell rings. Many teachers stay on after the school has emptied or dash home for quick meal so that they can be back in the evenings to sponsor a club meeting or direct an additional practice, and in general promote school spirit.

The role of an educator is not an easy one and calls for more learning than is ordinarily needed to become a success. There is no shortcut for learning and at AMHS the balance of age, experience, and enthusiasm has paid off in an active, happy faculty and student body.

vital role in our academic life each and every day.

With a smile on their face and a desire to serve, the school secretaries, cooks, and janitors are willing to help in any way possible.

Credit must also be given to students who help in the office, cafeteria, or by showing films.

Each day the students pass through the cafeteria serving line and are greeted by a friendly smile from the cooks.

Whether a pass to class or just information, the school secretaries are prepared and willing to help.

The janitors are kept busy from morning til night keeping the school clean and locking up after meetings and sports events.

However, without student help, these people would find their jobs much harder to fulfill.

At the close of the 1960-61 school year, students who had maintained a high scholastic average and had shown outstanding leadership in school and community activities were honored by selection as representatives of National Honor Society and Boys' and Girls' State.

The representatives for Boys' and Girls' State spent a week at I.U. studying the principles and functions of the government.

Formal initiation of the newly-chosen juniors and seniors takes place in the early spring. The candlelight ceremony, led by the officers, is both impressive and inspiring. While lighting the candle, members pledge themselves to uphold and excel their high scholastic ratings.

Able officers guided seniors during the year.

We entered Alex High in 1958 as a group of unfamiliar faces, but we quickly became organized as we acquainted ourselves with the school routine. Our first class meetings had no system of procedure, but soon they progressed in a very orderly manner. As the year sped by, we developed an intense loyalty to the school and were looked upon as contributing individuals, rather than a class of unwelcome youngsters.

As we advanced to sophomore standing, we became a real part of the school activities. The arrival of our class sweaters was an important event, and for the next few days the halls were bedecked in Columbia Blue. We broke away from the traditional parties at the Kanteen and finished the year with a muddy but lively trip to Mounds State Park.

The move to the new building gave us, as juniors, much responsibility, which we accepted eagerly. Class rings were a welcome addition to our growing prestige. We proved our powers of salesmanship by the successful selling of Christmas trees.

Our Senior year proved to be our busiest as we led the way in extracurricular activities. Preparations for Homecoming, choosing caps and gowns, and class parties were just a few of the highlights as we moved toward the climax of our high school days. As we prepared to leave AMHS we knew that it would never leave us. In each action, each deed, each idea, we reflect that which was learned from books and gained from the experience.

Senior Class officers were: President, Larry Beeman; Vice President, Jeff Latchaw, Secretary, Diann McClead; Treasurer, Ron Richards.

As freshmen we followed the same confusing

In Memoriam

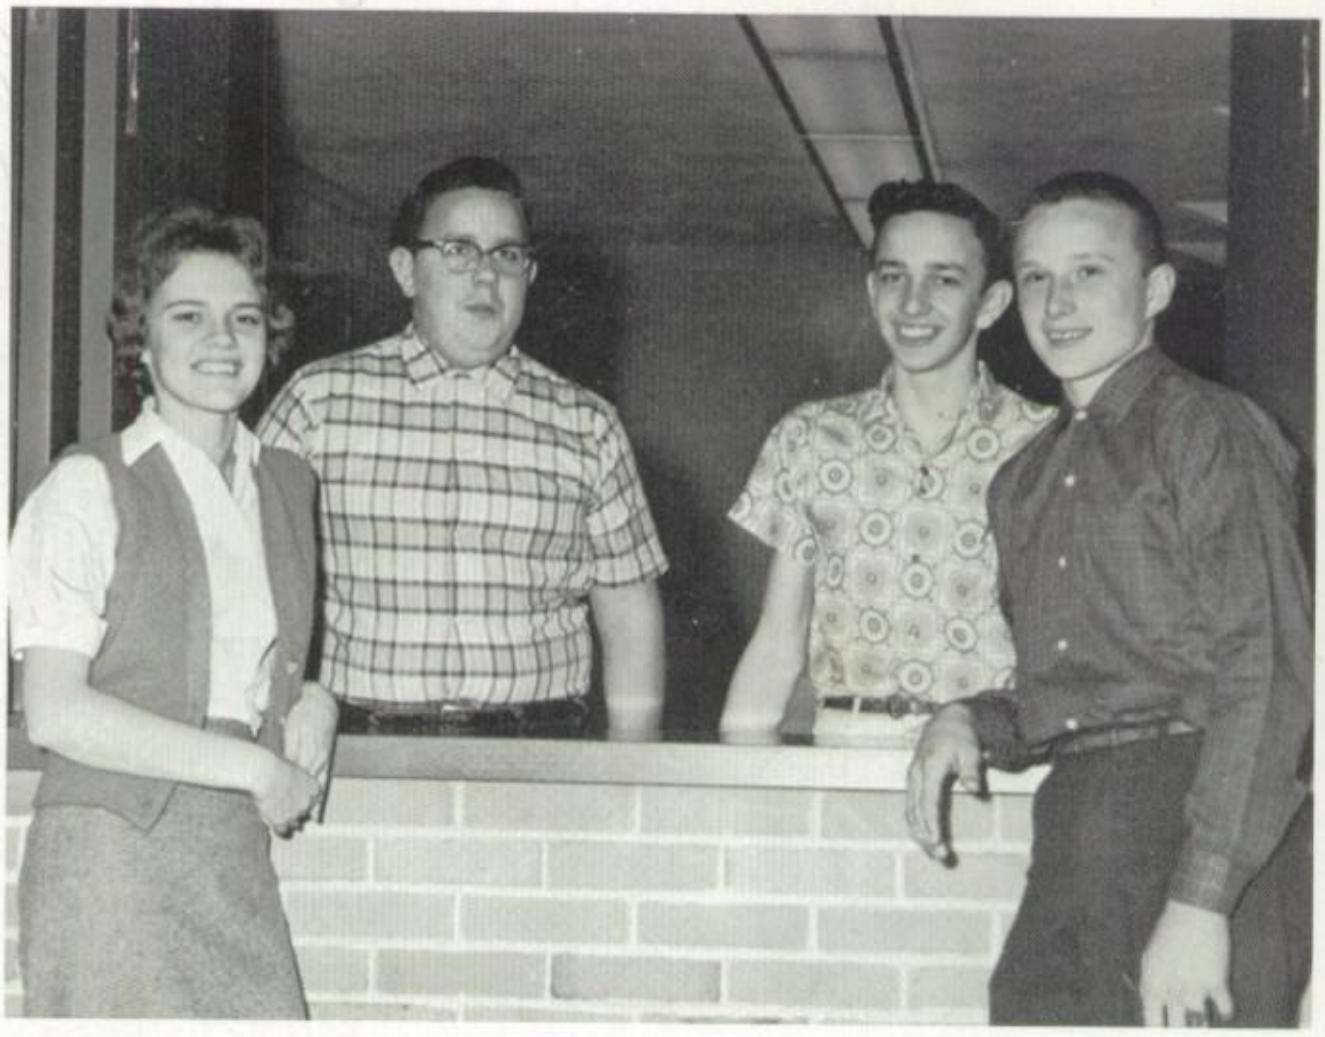
RONNIE DEAN CADE

"He died suddenly in the midst of happiness. He died with his high ideals unlowered. He died with all the noble illusions of high minded youth undisturbed and undispelled. He died without having lost ambition, with his eyes fixed on the high mountains of life where, beyond any question, had he lived he would have climbed."

A Tribute From The Class
Of 1962 and Their Parents.

DANNY ROGER WALKER

Juniors put salemanship methods to work in an



Elected to leadership positions were Junior officers, Nancy Walker, Secretary; Dennis Stansberry, Vice President; Doyle McCullough, Treasurer; and Louis Sayer, President.

The juniors kept a busy and steady pace as they anticipated their senior year.

The highlight of the year came with the arrival of their class rings in early fall. The class of '63 displayed their rings with the same pride as had each class before them.

With a new slant on class parties two bus loads of juniors journeyed to Indianapolis to witness the 1961 Ice Capades.

Always with their sights on their coming senior year, they held the annual junior class Christmas tree sales as a means for financing senior activities. A record hop was also held after a ball game to increase the size of their treasury. The year passed quickly, interrupted only by another class party. As a climax, the juniors accepted the traditional shovel from the out-going seniors.

Leading the way for the sophomores were Darlene Golden, Vice President; Butch Hughes, President; Susan Magee, secretary; and Peggy Ryan, Treasurer.

As the sophomores entered into their second year of high school they brought with them a class pride.
It was well shown as they sported bright blue class sweaters with the large numbers "64" catching your eye.

Although off to a slow start the first semester, they made up for it the second semester with their activities and a class party.

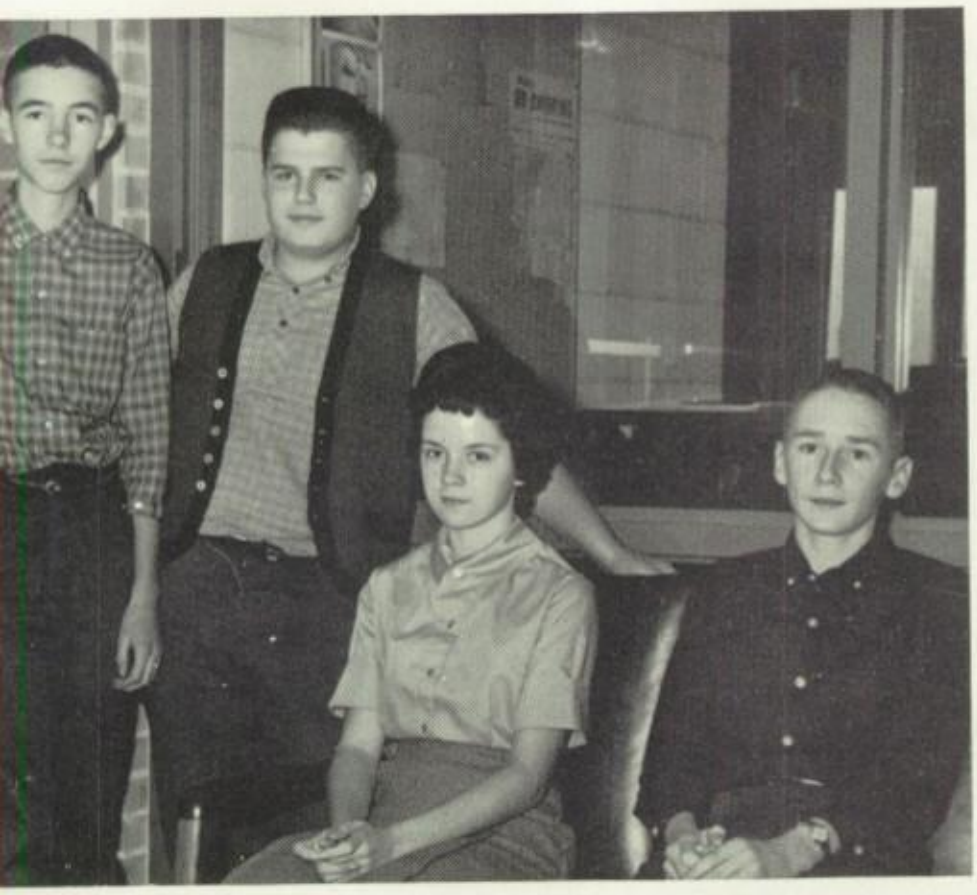
The sophomores display the orderly fashion in which students line up for lunch.

Frosh soon became acquainted with daily routine



Although the 234 freshmen made up the largest class that had ever been present on opening day, they did not let this hamper them in getting into the swing of school activities.

Class elections were held to place capable leaders in office to direct the year's activities.

Although the freshmen eagerly entered into many all-school activities they created their own class pride by holding class parties.

After school our town is brightened by the scene of hurrying teenagers. Whether up town to buy a coke, school supplies or something for mom, it can easily be seen that AMHS students do shop. Also, many of them work part-time for the merchants. Both of these tend to draw a very close link between our school and the community.

OPPORTUNITIES UNLIMITED FOR INQUIRING MINDS

There has never been a time when researchers were not shaping the lives of men. The wheel, the lever, the automobile and the space ship were all equally dependent on the inquiring mind. Progress expands with research. ■ Here at Delco-Remy, for example, our research interest was largely concentrated on automotive applications a generation ago. We could have contented ourselves with just making better starting, lighting and ignition systems. ■ But what we wanted to do was provide electrical energy for the needs of motion—all kinds of motion. At our luncheon tables these days, the conversation is likely to swing from semiconductors and transistor ignition systems to new devices for missile control or electrical power supplies for outer space. ■ We have a new ultra-modern research and engineering building nearing completion. In it, our scientists and engineers will find the most favorable environment possible for imaginative research. ■ What are the rewards of a scientific career? The opportunities are virtually unlimited. But there's something else equally important, we think. It's the tremendous satisfaction to be derived from contributing to human progress. ■ If you have an inquiring mind, it's a career you should think about.

Acknowledgements

A strong desire to cooperate and work hard plus journalistic talent are the qualities of the members of the Spectrum staff.

This new edition of the Spectrum has been published with but one objective: to capture a year between its covers. While we know that life at Alexandria-Monroe High School is a multitude of realities which are too intangible to be related in black and white, perhaps in some small way we can perserve the friendships which we all hold dearly. If this book will serve to bridge the past and bring to mind the priceless memories of joy and pleasures of the year just gone, it will have served its purpose.

There are those without whose efforts this book, the largest Spectrum ever published, would not have been possible. Much credit must be given to Steele's Studio for the major amount of photography and to Mr. Phillip Byers, representative of the American Yearbook Company. Also to the many people who have had but a minor part, but in reality a very important one in the production of this 1962 Spectrum.

Bah-
One of my oldest friends (Ha!)
by the way, with friends like you, who needs enemies!! Even if I am not too nice & kind of pushy minded, you've had a lot of fun to the days you've known. Were you still a fine dirty minded, fine friend. Were you the summage that last fun year - remember the chicken & noodle supper? Well, we in the Anderson with the canal & Mike and Ann might use at Anderson tickets & the chicken & noodle supper? Well, we sale selling tickets & the chicken & noodle supper? Well, we went about that job you offered me, but I'm still never forget it. I hope you change your mind thinking about it. I hope you change your mind decided to refuse — but maybe you will accept to kind someone who will appreciate all your future fortune
you much, much luck
Just remember, all I wish
I really do wish you all of the luck in the world and hope you'll be happy in whatever you choose &
do. Well, if possible, God Bless you & Keep Smiling
Your friend (I think!)
